

TIME CAN BE YOUR GREATEST ASSET OR YOUR WORST LIABILITY

The Choice is Yours!

Insurance is one of the largest expenses of any size trucking company. Even more expensive is a poorly designed insurance program.

With exposure to both increased insurance premiums and the inability to make good decisions on an insurance program most small trucking companies wait until the last few days before their policies renew to review their options. This procrastination can cost you sizeable dollars.

There is a solution! A better practice is to make sure you start the review process at least 45 days ahead of time. Mondics Insurance Group can assist you in gathering the necessary information to secure an alternate quote. In the event the program you have in place is well structured and priced we will advise you to remain where you are. In the event there is an opportunity to save money on your program we will advise you of what we can do. You will either validate that your pricing is fair or possibly find a way to lower your insurance costs and add to your bottom line.

Mondics Insurance Group, with over 40 years of trucking industry insurance experience, understands the challenges facing small trucking companies and works with you to get you the best price. We understand the challenges you face in the trucking business. Our team has access to many insurance companies specializing in trucking insurance and will work with you and the underwriters to design a program that suits you.
